STEPPING UP SUPPORT

In Q2 2022, we saw the Chinese government intensifying top-down actions to support the platform economy after Vice Premier Liu He set the ball rolling by issuing a strong promise⁴ in the Financial Stability and Development Committee (FSDC) meeting on 16 March 2022 to ease regulatory crackdowns.

During the Politburo meeting chaired by President Xi Jinping on 29 April 2022, China's top decision-making body pledged to support the healthy development of tech platform companies⁵, fueling a 10% surge in the Hang Seng TECH Index within the same day⁶.

Thereafter on 5 May 2022, the State Council Executive Meeting (chaired by Premier Li Keqiang) introduced measures to support healthy development⁷ of the platform economy as quickly as possible. Following the meeting, the People's Bank of China (PBOC) announced normalized supervision of the tech sector's financial activities. All these were actions that came one day after the US Federal Reserve approved a 50 basis points (bps) rate hike⁸ on 4 May 2022.

“ We will step up macroeconomic policy adjustment, and adopt more forceful measures to deliver the economic and social development goals for the whole year¹² ”
 - Xi Jinping, President of the People's Republic of China

During the Chinese People's Political Consultative Conference (CPPCC) meeting on 17 May 2022, Vice Premier Liu He stated⁹ that the government would back the development and public listings of digital economy and private enterprises. The CPPCC attendees included Baidu Inc's founder (Robin Li) and Qihoo 360's founder (Zhou Hongyi).

On 25 May 2022, Premier Li Keqiang held a nationwide video conference¹⁰ with more than 100,000 party cadres to reinforce China's focus to maintain economic stability and preserve growth. Shortly after, Shanghai announced on 30 May 2022 to end its 2-month lockdown¹¹ starting 1 June 2022. All these actions align closely with the Chinese Communist Party's top priority of continuing economic development, as highlighted in our Q4 2021 and Q1 2022 newsletters. These are concrete actions taken to stabilise financial markets.

By providing exposure to the 30 largest TECH-themed companies listed in Hong Kong, the Lion-OCBC Securities Hang Seng TECH ETF is well positioned to capitalize on the long-term growth story of the Chinese tech sector.
